PARTY PAINTINGS

Spencer Sweeney opened his music venue, Santa's Party House, in 2008 and the Party Paintings were created as promotional materials for the various events that he would host there. Santa's was flowing with different creative channels – music, visual art, light, and social interaction. Sweeney compares the venue to living sculpture with curated multi-sensory environments. Sweeney paints these works in a very energetic way, showing the liveliness and excitement of music and the bond it creates between different people. Time to create your own Party Painting!

Party Painting, 2012

* Imagine you are hosting your own party. What is the theme of your party?

* What objects and colors could you use in your Party Painting that connects to your theme? Come up with three objects/shapes you plan to include.

* Write down the information that you think should be included in your Party Painting. For example, location, date and time, performances, etc.
